

1) Press release

The Eugeniusz Geppert Academy of Art and Design is pleased to announce the call for applications to the BA and MA programs in Printmaking.

All courses are taught in English!

The BA & MA program engages students in a variety of printmaking processes.

Program participants obtain the possibility to investigate and learn methods of intaglio (etching and engraving), silkscreen printing, flatbed printing (plate and stone lithography), relief printing (woodcut, linocut) and digital printing. Students participating in the program will have an opportunity to specialize in unique practices and techniques, namely mezzotint, photo-etching, or collograph. The program curriculum presents printmaking in agreement with Polish traditions and artistic achievements, and encourages contemporary and experimental approaches as well.

From the next academic year we also start with free of charge one-year Postgraduate Study Program in English INTERDISCIPLINARY PRINTMAKING.

Under this program, students will be able to participate in master classes, lectures, workshops and outdoor workshops.
